JANUARY 2026 COLLECTION

HERITAGE

At the heart of Phaino Lighting are two deeply held principles: Honesty and Integrity, wrapped in sustainability, and delivered in modern, good design.

Phaino Lighting began with a moment of clarity — an epiphany, fittingly, given that phaino is the Greek root found in the word “epiphany.”

In 2004, after leaving a project management role in the contracting industry, I joined a small HID lamp manufacturer in Mentor, Ohio — five years before LED lighting would become viable for general use. That chapter sparked something: a fascination with lighting as a bridge between art, design, and emerging technology.

Phaino Lighting was founded on a belief that lighting should be both a technical achievement and a work of art. Long before mass production reshaped the industry, light fixtures were sculpted by hand — cast in glass, iron, or aluminum, and designed with intention, detail, and visual movement. Over time, technological advancements shifted lighting toward machined, spun, and extruded components, setting the foundation for the iconic mid-century modern aesthetic but leaving behind much of the nuance and craftsmanship that once defined the field.

At Phaino Lighting, we look backward to move forward. We revive the sculptural artistry and tactile detail of early light-making while pairing it with today’s most advanced LED technology. The result is a collection of architecturally relevant luminaires that elevate interiors, integrate seamlessly with modern automation and building control systems, and dramatically reduce energy consumption. Every fixture is designed to enrich the visual and emotional experience of a space — not just illuminate it.
